

18. U.N. Control of the Whale Resources

Believing that the conservation of whales and of other "common property" living resources of the oceans requires global management supported by effective international control and enforcement

the 9th General Assembly of IUCN meeting in Lucerne in June 1966

urges the early development of a specialized agency under the United Nations for the management and conservation of whales.